

Transportation

Driven by a commitment to the transportation industry

Nelson Mullins' attorneys work with motor vehicle, aviation, and railroad clients in the transportation sector. We can help guide your company, whether you are

- a motor vehicle manufacturer or distributor seeking to expand a dealer network or litigating dealer or consumer claims or class actions
- an air carrier or aircraft component manufacturer facing litigation
- a railroad seeking counsel for litigation involving personal injury, premises liability, toxic torts, or facing disputes with vendors or employees

Providing effective legal representation

Nelson Mullins assists motor vehicle manufacturers and distributors with dealer network development, statutory and regulatory compliance, legal risk, and disputes involving dealers

Nelson Mullins' attorneys also bring a substantial background in transportation law, working with aircraft manufacturers, airlines, and railroads on a range of litigation, corporate matters, and regulatory issues.

When you face

- Aircraft incident investigation and litigation
- Motor Vehicle Dealer network expansion
- Motor Vehicle Dealer termination
- Rail accidents, including crossing accidents, trespasser accidents, and derailments
- Representation before state and federal regulatory bodies relating to transportation of goods
- Tort claims and environmental litigation or regulatory action arising from the release of hazardous materials during transportation
