

Construction

Promoting effective construction management & resolving disputes

Nelson Mullins' attorneys have represented construction clients in every segment of the industry and at every stage of construction projects. They appreciate the challenges our clients confront, regardless of a project's size, location, or delivery method. Our client-focused team is equipped to help you mitigate risk and resolve complex construction disputes whether you are

- a public or private owner prosecuting defect or delay claims or defending against contractor payment claims
- an owner or developer of a multi-million dollar project
- a state Department of Transportation seeking procurement and risk mitigation guidance as you enhance your state's infrastructure
- a national manufacturer defending class-action construction defect lawsuits
- a general contractor or subcontractor seeking an equitable adjustment or enforcing contractual rights
- a project participant at any tier requiring advice on insurance issues
- a surety or insurance company

Bringing diverse experience and a practical perspective

Nelson Mullins' construction attorneys possess experience across a spectrum of practice areas, including claim analysis and defect analysis, government relations, government contracting, corporate structure and administration, project financing, insurance and bonding requirements, environmental compliance, products liability exposure analysis, bond claim prosecution/defense, and bankruptcy law.

Our construction litigators also work to resolve disputes before Dispute Resolution Boards, mediators, arbitrators, and in trials in state and federal courts.

Our services help you to

- Assess and address regulatory considerations

Related Practice Areas

Appellate Practice & Legal Strategies

Construction

Corporate & Securities

E-Discovery - Encompass

E-Discovery & Information Governance

Energy

Environmental

Environmental - Transactions

Environmental Enforcement & Litigation

Litigation

Real Estate

Transportation

White Collar Defense & Government Investigations

- Assess environmental considerations
- Develop and implement government relations strategies
- Evaluate project transactional requirements and assess risks
- Evaluate, assert, and defend indemnity claims
- Navigate state and federal public bidding and government contract requirements
- Perform pre-construction risk evaluation
- Resolve disputes
- Structure transactions and draft and negotiate contract documents
- Understand bankruptcy implications

A seasoned team with balanced perspectives and practical business sense

We provide a client-focused approach to help achieve client objectives at a competitive price. Nelson Mullins has built a strong team of attorneys, policy advisors, paralegals, eDiscovery, and other professionals to offer our construction sector clients reliable services and solutions that make practical business sense. As trusted advisors, we work side-by-side with you toward shared goals. Our construction litigators have the courtroom and other experience you need to help you protect and enforce your contract rights.

Why Nelson Mullins?

- Practical business mindset dedicated to client needs
- Multi-disciplinary team with cross market and office capabilities
- Cost effectiveness and budget predictability
- Trial and appellate experience
- Existing relationships with industry leaders, expert witnesses, and consultants